Ike Given Okay to Run — Will Ponder Question

...By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's doctors say he is physically able to serve a second term. They go further and say that from a medical standpoint he appears fit for "another 5 to 10 years" in the presidency.

That is the optimistic report Eisenhower takes with him when he flies today to Thomasville, Ga., for about a week's vacation at the estate of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. There he quite likely will reach a final decision on whether to seek re-election—if he has not already done so.

"The choice regarding a second term is his, not ours," said Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist, in telling a news conference about the medical report he and his colleagues gave Eisenhower.

The President's six doctors said in a prepared statement Eisenhower "has made a good recovery" from the heart attack he suffered Sept. 24, and his health "continues to be satisfactory."

Eisenhower undoubtedly will give the physicians' report careful consideration before he makes his announcement, which he has indicated will come around March 1. But he told a news conference a week ago today:

"I think I will probably trust my own feelings more than I will the doctors' report."

Nevertheless, the medical appraisal was a cause for much jubilation among political supporters who have been predicting Eisenhower will bid for another four years in the White House if he is physically able.

McClellan Says Data Withheld From Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) today accused high government officials of withholding information about what he said are mounting free world sales of strategic materials to Russia's "war machine."

Opening public hearings of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, Chairman McClellan said in a statement the group has received "evidence that merchants of the free world are helping to build up Russia's military potential by furnishing them items which are indispensable in constructing or maintaining a war machine."

He said this trade volume has reached "very disturbing" proportions since a 1954 meeting in Paris at which the United States agreed to a relaxation of trade curbs.

McClellan said obstacles have been raised to his efforts to pinpoint the scope of the agreement and to find out what American officials consented to it.

Prior inquiries into East-West trade have set off some bitter rows between the subcommittee and administration officials.

The start of public hearings came after a closed door meeting yesterday between McClellan and Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. Neither Hoover nor McClellan would comment, but other subcommittee members, who declined to be quoted by name, said Hoover had advised strongly against a public investigation, citing possible impact on U. S. relations with Western allies.

McClellan said the easing of the trade curbs "has been harmful to the security of the non-Communist world."

"I would be less than frank," he said. "If I did not tell you that some of the information that has been given this subcommittee" in preliminary close-door hearings "as to the nature and extent of the relaxation of these controls over shipments of vital and strategic material, to the Soviet bloc is very disturbing."

He said the materials include heavy metal working machinery, electric generators, minerals and metals and transportation, electronic and industrial equipment.

McClellan said "We understand government officials are now beginning conferences on decontroling and liberalizing the free world's trade with China." All U. S. trade with Red China now is under an outright ban.

He asserted that: "Heads of departments of the executive branch of the government have thus far declined to give the subcommittee the names of government employees and officials who made recommendations and decisions. They have declined to make available to the subcommittee certain documents that the committee has requested, or to permit the staff to review such documents."

Half Agree on Way Doctors Should Charge

CHICAGO (AP) — About half the public feels doctors should charge the same fees to all persons, regardless of ability to pay.

But two thirds of the doctors favor a sliding scale, charging some patients more than others.

These divergent views were shown today in a report on a nationwide survey sponsored by the American Medical Association to determine what complaints people have about doctors and how services can be improved.

The public and the nation's doctors are even more sharply divided on the question of whether advance news reports to the public on new experimental drugs and treatments are desirable or undesirable.

Four fifths of the 500 doctors questioned in the survey believe such publicity causes more harm than good.

However, a majority of the public with an opinion on the subject contend such reports create interest and speed up research. Forty-five per cent of the public approved such reporting while 35 per cent disapproved. The remainder of the public approved such reporting while 35 per cent disapproved. The remainder of the 3,500 lay persons questioned had no opinion.

Viewpoints also differed on the question of fee-splitting. Eighty-one per cent of the doctors questioned believed the public has an exaggerated impression of fee-splitting. Only 10 per cent of the public shared that view.

Scouting History Traced at Local Kiwanis Meet

"This I Believe" was the topic of an address delivered before Hope Kiwanis club Tuesday by Arthur Hughes, boy scout executive, of Hope.

He traced the beginning of boy scout work in America from its beginning in 1910 down to the present methods of youth training, and said there was little difference in the same high ideals and principals from the inception date of scouting as compared to present aims.

"Good scouting means good men, a good community, high ideals and leadership and progress," said the speaker.

Special guests of the club Tuesday were members of the High School girls basketball team. Foot ball Coach Leon Turpin introduced Mrs. Norma Taylor, coach, who in turn introduced members of the team.

The squad has won two tournaments this year, and came in second or runner-up in a third tournament. Four seniors are graduating this year from the first team, but there is ample material for an outstanding team next year, said Mrs. Taylor, coach.

Tom Howard of Nashville, Tenn., was a guest of the club.

Figures Most Men Worry About Losing Their Hair But Fear Wearing a Toupee Even More

BY HAL BOYLE, NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't read his mail:

That nearly four out of five American men over 25 years of age are worried about losing their hair.

That while a majority of baldies think it would be a good idea for their bald friends to wear a toupee, they are afraid to do so themselves, mostly because of a fear being kidded. But for some reason they don't feel President Eisenhower or Adlai Stevenson, for that matter — should don a toupee.

That 76 per cent of the custom-made hair-pieces made by a major firm in this growing industry are

Playboy Pleads Guilty to Stock Swindle

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert H. Schlesinger, 38-year-old playboy son of a millionaire mother, pleaded guilty yesterday to an oil stock swindle.

He had used $132,000 of the proceeds from a shaky Louisiana oil promotion to buy jewelry for actress Linda Christian.

He traced the beginning of boy scout work in America from its beginning in 1910 down to the present methods of youth training, and said there was little difference in the same high ideals and principals from the inception date of scouting as compared to present aims.

Harris B. Steinberg, Schlesinger's lawyer, told the court:

"He realizes the foolishness of his past acts and as a first step towards straightening out his life he has to realize that he has wronged other people and to make whatever redress is possible."

Steinberg said Schlesinger, an Air Force veteran, now has a steady job as a pilot and flight instructor.

Schlesinger's mother, the former Mona Williams, inherited 12 million dollars in 1953 from her second husband, Harrison Williams. She is now married to Count Alber Edward Bismarck. She has long been rated one of the world's best dressed women.

McClellan said the easing of the trade curbs "has been harmful to the security of the non-Communist world."

McClellan said "We understand government officials are now beginning conferences on decontroling and liberalizing the free world's trade with China." All U. S. trade with Red China now is under an outright ban.

He asserted that: "Heads of departments of the executive branch of the government have thus far declined to give the subcommittee the names of government employees and officials who made recommendations and decisions. They have declined to make available to the subcommittee certain documents that the committee has requested, or to permit the staff to review such documents."

Mrs. Dorothy J. Berry
Staff Member At Cottey
College Guest Speaker
In Hope

Mrs. Dorothy J. Berry, Staff Member of Cottey College, Nevada, Missouri was an honored guest and speaker at several meetings in Hope on February 9th, and 10th.

On February 9th, at the home of Mrs. Clyde Monts, Mrs. Berry talked to the members of Chapter AE of P. E. O. and on the 10th, at the home of Mrs. Jim McKenzie, president of the local chapter, Mrs. Berry talked at an area meeting of representatives of chapters in Magnolia, Nashville and Hope. In addition she met with a group of prospective students at the High School and later conferred with Mr. James Stewart, principal of the High School.

Cottey College, stated Mrs. Berry is a Junior College for girls sponsored by P. E. O. Sisterhood. It is fully accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and secondary Schools and by the University of Missouri. A conservative curriculum is maintained which allows a graduate to transfer her credits to any school in the United States without loss of credit.

Cottey is known as "College Of World Friendship" — this year there are girls enrolled from 38 states and in addition there are 11 international students from many foreign countries.

There are 44 administrative officers and faculty members and at no time does a teacher have over 16 students in her (or his) class. The courses offered by Cottey are in the field of Liberal Arts and are planned to prepare the student for advanced and specialized work in senior and graduate schools.

It is with pride that P. E. O. and Cottey points out the fact that the college is one of 10 selected Junior Colleges participating in "The Reid Hall Third Year In Paris Program." Twenty-five students from these colleges are selected each year and two of them are from Cottey, by a special Board, composed of several prominent persons including Dr. Blanch Hinnan Dow, President of Cottey College and Chairmaned by Mrs. Edward R. Murrah, wife of the popular radio and TV commentator.

Mrs. Berry, lists the following as the principle requirements for entrance to Cottey:

Pollution of Water Charge at El Dorado

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. Pollution of the lower Ouachita River has killed game fish like a plague, a delegation from El Dorado charged yesterday.

The delegation met with the state Water Pollution Board to find some way of ending pollution of the Ouachita, and all other rivers and streams in Arkansas. State Sen. Marshall Shackleton, spokesman for the delegation, said the board had agreed to furnish a list of technical personnel needed to make a study of the situation in the El Dorado-Camden area. State funds aren't available for the study, private contributions will be sought, said the El Dorado senator.

Another member of the delegation, Hurley Axum, told the board the polluted river was also serving as a deterrent to the area's industrial expansion. He said the water was unfit for use by some industries, and that El Dorado recently lost a chance at getting a new plant because of the river's condition.

The chronic pollution problem was intensified, said Shackleton, when thousands of game fish were found dead in the Ouachita recently. Jim Pomeroy added that some fishing in the Ouachita is about a thing of the past.

CHAPTER XXVII

Mrs. Dorn sighed and pulled out the plug. "She's quarreled with Dr. Dick. I try to avoid being the anxious and interfering mother, but sometimes it's difficult not to get involved."

"A lover's spat, huh?"

"Frankly, Mr. Bennett, I don't approve of Dr. Dick." She leaned forward and lowered her voice. "It's been rather embarrassing for me. Lucy has simply thrown herself at Dr. Dick, knowing all the while that he was madly in love with Alice Osborn. And Alice, playing Dick and Wilbur Tweed against each other—she didn't decide upon Wilbur until a few weeks ago. Even then, Dick didn't give up. Then Alice was killed and he came running back to Lucy and wanted her to marry him and go away and help him forget Alice. Can you imagine? Well, when Lucy told me, I gave her a piece of my mind. There comes a time when a mother simply has to step in. I told her she was making a fool of herself, that Dick didn't love her, that he was merely using her. I told her to forget him and wait for the right man, someone I know." Lucy told me, "Well, Lucy was quite angry at first, but today

Dog Track Wants to Open April 15

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. If the Arkansas Racing Commission complies with a Chancery Court ruling and issues a franchise to a new dog track here, the track will ask permission to start its first meeting April 15.

Cecil R. Edmonds, president of Southland Racing Corp., owner of the track, announced the proposed starting date yesterday.

Chancellor W. Leon Smith has ordered the commission to grant an operating permit to Southland. He held the commission overstepped its authority last December when it rejected Southland's application for a franchise on the ground that the track wasn't "in the best interest of the state."

The judge, in effect, upheld Southland's contention that the commission is compelled by law to grant operating permits to any track operator who meets the law's financial and moral requirements.

However, state Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry has said he'll appeal Judge Smith's ruling to the Arkansas Supreme Court. If he does, Judge Smith's decision will be held up pending the high court's action.

Bus Boycott Studied at Montgomery

By AL LANIER

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—How much has the 10-week-old bus boycott by Negroes here cost the bus company and the community?

Officials of the National City Bus Lines aren't making public the company's loss. The cost in terms of the community is much more important, and that isn't measurable either, civic leaders say.

But racial tension between white persons and Negroes has mounted. The Montgomery Advertiser recently put it this way:

"Never before in Montgomery has the word 'nigger' been used as frequently as in recent weeks."

The racial unrest in Alabama has pulled white persons and Negroes farther apart. Thousands of Negroes attend boycott meetings here, and officials of the pro-white Central Alabama Citizens Council say their membership has jumped from a few hundred to 12,000.

The boycott began Dec. 5 in protest to segregated seating laws. On that day Mrs. Rosa Parks, a seamstress, was fined $14 for refusing to move to the back of a bus. Since then the Negroes have stayed off the buses in droves.

Estimates of the boycott's effectiveness run as high as 95 percent. About 65 percent of the bus company's patrons were normally Negroes but the company claims it is now breaking even by hiking bus fares and curtailing service.

means to end the protest move-

plug in a cord. Reluctantly I decided to leave.

We drove to Sunny Acres Cemetery in Dr. Van Horn's car. I will not attempt to describe the equipment carried in the car, but it was adequate, as I learned later, although the metal containers were a trifle bulky.

"Of course," he said in his guttural voice, "we could move the entire body, but it might involve legal complications and is not necessary. The heart and the lungs will be sufficient to determine if death was caused by silicosis, with perhaps accompanying tuberculosis, or by coronary occlusion. That is my assignment, is it not?"

"Yes, sir," I said, "to the best of my knowledge."

I directed Dr. Martingale to stop on the drive opposite the Osborn site. As we got out of the car, the caretaker, Ted Johnson, came forward to meet me. Behind him I saw the gentle mound of damp yellow earth over Alice Osborn's grave, thinly obscured by layers of flowers. Beside it was a bigger mound of earth and a gaping hole. At one side was a muddy bronze casket resting on two wooden supports, commonly known as sawhorses.

Johnson said, "We didn't open the casket. Want me to do it now?"

"Yes. Where are your helpers?" "Gone home to supper. They'll be back pretty quick." He turned and walked up the slope toward the casket.

I helped the two doctors unload their equipment. As we approached the open grave, the caretaker said, "There was a crack in the cement vault, and some water and mud seeped in. Charlie Starz does all of Wilbur's vault work—I'll mention it to him."

"Yes," I said, "Open the casket."

"Screws are rusted. But I'll get it." He worked busily, and then I heard a screeching sound and the casket lid tilted against the red evening sky. Beyond the casket the trees waved soundlessly in the dying afternoon breeze.

The sun was almost down.

Dr. Van Horn took off his coat and drew on a pair of rubber gloves. I heard him say to Dr. Martingale, "Get your note book, Jerry. We can get part of this down as I proceed."

"It's lucky for you that I learned shorthand in high school," the young doctor said. "On this job I'm more of a stenographer than a doctor." He sounded depressed.

Van Horn laughed softly. "A doctor with knowledge of shorthand is a rarity. And do not fret; you will learn plenty of medicine with me before you save enough money to hang out your shingle."

"On what the state pays," Dr. Martingale said gloomily, "that glorious day will be a long time coming."

Frank Osborn was a slight man, smaller than I'd expected. Somehow I had pictured him as tall, perhaps maceted by the silicosis, but a big-boned man. He wasn't. He was short and delicate, clad in a neat dark suit, white shirt and a dark tie. One thin waxy hand resting on his chest bore a gold wedding ring. He looked peaceful, as his wife had looked, as all the dead look.

"Is there enough light, Chief?" Dr. Martingale asked.

"Yes, for the present."

Russia Has a New Public Relations Man

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON, D.C. The Russians must have a new public relations man. Every move packs a propaganda wallop. They waltz up to the United States as if to shake hands and then sock with a fast left cross.

Their timing is good, as the dates show. They've got this country wondering where the next punch is coming from.

But there's no mystery about their propaganda which has two aims: to shake loose this country's allies by trying to fill them with misgiving about American intentions; and to win over the people of Asia, Africa and the Middle East with the idea Russia is a big brother, the United States the opposite.

Here are some dates: Jan. 25. While Britain's Prime Minister Eden was on his way here to meet with President Eisenhower—an event bound to capture world headlines—Premier Bulganin sent Eisenhower a personal message.

Thereafter Eden's approaching visit had to share top headlines with the message. Secrecy surrounding it added to the interest. Russia didn't spoil the interest by revealing the contents.

Jan. 28. Eisenhower released both Bulganin's message and his own reply. Bulganin had proposed a 20-year friendship treaty. Eisenhower rejected the offer, suggesting Russia show its good intentions by deeds rather than words.

Jan. 29. The Soviet press headlined Bulganin's offer but didn't mention Eisenhower's reply. The Russians let the offer sink in, getting maximum mileage out of it, building up the hopes for people who didn't know Eisenhower's reply.

Jan. 30-Feb. 1. After three days of talks, Eisenhower and Eden issued a joint statement on what they had discussed and decided. It was vague. They stressed their wishes for peaceful settlements in the Middle East.

They referred to a 1950 agreement they had with the French to stop a war in the Middle East, if it broke out, by acting together inside or outside the United Nations. Did this mean they'd intervene with troops? They didn't say.

The Russians let this pass momentarily. They had other fish to fry. As if to divert world attention from the Eisenhower-Eden message of the day before, Bulganin did an extraordinary thing.

Feb. 2. He sent a second letter to Eisenhower, urging again a friendship treaty and offered the same kind of treaty to America's friends. He called on this country to show by deeds also that it wanted peace and pointed out the United States had surrounded Russia with air bases.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles decided to wait a while before rejecting this second offer, as they almost certainly will. They haven't answered yet.

Feb. 6. While the world was still pining this second Soviet offer, the Russians accused the United States of sending balloons equipped with cameras and radios over Russia to do military spying.

This may have been meant to back up Bulganin's complaint the United States was bombing in Russia militarily. The Russians again, although explaining the balloons were not aerial spies but were gathering only scientific information.

Feb. 13. Russia picked up what it had ignored before: the Eisenhower-Eden statement. It warned against use of American-British-French troops in the Middle East, put itself in the position of protecting the Arabs.
